2017 Geography Awareness Week
At West Virginia University

Thinking of becoming a Geography major? Wondering what amazing projects you could do with Geography? Check out this year’s Geography Capstone Student Presentations
Monday, November 13th, 9:00am-12:00pm, Brooks Hall 325

2017 GEO TALKS

Come find out about some of the exciting research our Geography Faculty are up to and how Geography is relevant in your life!

Tuesday, November 14th
at 7pm
202 Brooks Hall – Downtown Campus

This year’s talk line-up:
• Mapping the Poor and Vulnerable in Malawi by Dr. Brent McCusker
• Water in Africa by Dr. Jamie Shinn
• The Geography of Tree Architecture: Using UAVs, Satellites, Webcams, and Shotguns to Study Forests and Climate Change by Dr. Brenden McNeil
• Electoral Geography by Dr. Ken Martis

DESSERTS FROM AROUND THE WORLD!

Wednesday, November 15th from noon to 2pm
3rd Floor Brooks Hall

Want to know more about this year’s national Geography Awareness Week initiative? Visit www.news.aag.org/2017/05/geography-awareness-week/. To learn more about WVU Geography, visit www.geography.wvu.edu.